Dear Classmates,

I can remember writing in the letter which appeared in the original Class Book that "ten, fifteen or twenty years from now we will have a better perspective on our four year experience" or some such thing. What hogwash! With the passing of time Yale drifts farther and farther away from me, becomes more an idea, a concept, and less an experience. I still go to football games and convocations and write class notes and try to steer boys to Yale, but why?

Why do you respond so well to questionnaires and dues requests and fund requests? You do, and you'll probably show up in droves for reunion. Great, but I don't understand it.

Look at this publication, the product of some dogged determination, generosity and good clean fun. The self-appointed committee inspired by Chris Carter, but prodded and supported by Herb Prem, Bill Nightingale and Marv Deckoff has in fact published a small book. What do you make of it?

The work of Fred Klingenstein, Bert Walker's special gifts chairman, his cohorts and the stalwart college and regional agents of the alumni fund are doing a superlative job. What is the commission?

If someone can answer these questions, please don't. By trade I purvey unanswerable questions. If someone ever came up with answers, I would probably undergo a trauma. Let me just enjoy writing this to you. After all the fun is in the doing.

Sincerely yours

Christy P. Emerson

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The official records of Yale University number 1,121 living members of the Class of 1953. To all but ten of these, their whereabouts being unknown, we mailed two questionnaires six short months ago. The response, not surprisingly, has been overwhelming. 779 of us returned the biographical form and the information we supplied appears in full beginning on page 1. (Some of you were a little slow in mailing your form back so you'll appear twice — your name alphabetically and your full biography on pages 70-71.) Some 741 took the time to answer the anonymous questionnaire to reveal what we're doing and thinking today. This is a fantastic response rate of almost 67% which should certainly impress the advertising men (3% of our class) if no one else.

The response to our mailing points up once again the enthusiasm and solidarity of the Class of '53 whose interest in this project is equalled by its generosity to Yale, as at the time of this writing our contributions to the Yale Alumni Fund are approaching a tenth reunion record.

Perhaps, however, we are a bit carried away by our enthusiasm — half of us reported we ranked in the top third at Yale while only 15% admitted to the lower third. Was it really the less intelligent members of the class who did not respond or merely the lack of guide lines in the question itself? We only hope that the other answers are more realistic or our survey could be as reliable as a questionnaire on capitalism initiated by the Pravda subscription department.

We are reprinting those questions which can be expressed in percentages at the end of this summary and have renumbered them accordingly. If you can't find some of the questions you answered, its either because they couldn't be answered numerically or they were too darn numerical for analysis — at least by us, unable to beg, borrow or steal an IBM machine. And if you didn't answer question 24 when you completed the survey, don't be upset — we forgot to include it.

The percentages listed in the survey and commented upon in this summary are based on a sample of 713 responses. Along about March 7th, two months after the deadline mentioned in our letter, we decided we'd better get out the old adding machine and start totaling the results. By that day, 713 of us had replied and so we form the basis for our class profile.

OCCUPATION

Is it a relief or an annoyance to find out that we're still hopelessly normal?

The majority of us fall into the eastern-living, Republican-voting, suburban-commuting, pillar-of-the-community category. Those of us who are married boast about two offspring each and we are largely satisfied with our current whereabouts and even more with our present occupations.

We've done pretty well to uphold the image of the gray-flanneled bright young man. Though one of us is a laborer, most of the rest of us are working in front of or behind a desk. 47% are in some kind of business, while 14% are caught up on the right side of the law. Medicine (12%) comes next, followed by engineering (9%). Teaching claims 7%, while government, military and science claim 2% each. The remaining 5% is divided equally between architecture/art, clergy, journalism, performing arts and students.

73% have worked for only one or two companies since graduation but four men have worked for more than eight, one for eight, two for seven and two for six, while one peripatetic individual in the performing arts has worked for 30 "companies." Those of us who wouldn't choose the same occupation again (15%) would largely go into medicine. Could these be the same classmates who sit mesmerized by the exploits of Doctors Casey and Kildare each week? There is one honest man among us, though, who "wouldn't work."

70% served in a branch of the military before starting their careers and 62% of these found it a valuable experience. Perhaps this statistic is an indication that the Armed Forces should approach our Madison Avenue classmates for an up-grading of their image, as a random sampling of the Yale undergraduate body in 1953 showed that 41% thought military service would be of little or no value. It is interesting to note that of the 10% who felt it was a complete waste of time, almost all were involved with the Army while almost every marine and air force graduate was recorded in the valuable experience group.

FINANCE

Our pay checks are considerably advanced over our predecessors at Yale. 43% are earning $11,000 or more a year compared with the ten-year-out results of 10% for the Class of 1950 and 39% for the Class of 1951. Most of us fall in the $9,000-$11,000 bracket and the class median salary looks to be about $10,350. Despite these relatively high salaries, 24% are not able to save or invest anything but, conversely, many who are earning under $7,000 are saving over 20%. The more we make, the more we spend.

The statisticians among you will note the considerable jump between salary and total income. While 12% earned $16,000 or more last year, 25% received a total income exceeding that lofty amount. A whopping 15% had over $50,000 in the market six months ago. Was it our wives or our subscriptions to the Wall Street Journal?

The life insurance salesmen have been busy and they've been signing us up for healthy policies. The charity requests have not fared as well and one-third of us give less than $100 a year.

Almost all of us own a TV set and a car, but one classmate says proudly that he owns none of the items which were listed. One man owns a shack, another a rowboat, one is the proud owner of a "superb pure bred bitch," while the mention of a summer house drew the wrath of one classmate who stated rather indignantly that he was the owner of a "damn expensive first house." Other possessions mentioned were a piano, organ, bicycle, rare books, gut bucket, cello and garden tractor. We were informed by one man, however, that "slavery is illegal" when we included full time domestic help among those things we owned. 7% of the class have such help, illegal or not.

RESIDENCE

We live primarily in the East, twice as many there as in the Mid-West and Far West combined, and about half of us live in a house in the suburbs. Of our 713, 383 are owners and 304 renters. That leaves 26 of us who may live in hospitals like one man who so reported. If we rent, we most likely pay $100-$150 a month, while average monthly payments for owners run $150-$200. This statistic, rather than any on massive retaliation, is most likely to produce an exodus from New York City. 4% pay over $300 rent and 13% of the home owners estimate their payments to be over $300.

23% are undecided about their present whereabouts, 9% are restless, and 14% definitely want to move. Most of us have moved at least once and a grand total of 13 moves was recorded by one footloose classmate. The more we've moved in the past, the more anxious we are to move now. The most content seem to be those living in the same area in which they grew up (approximately 33%).

FAMILY

92 men still haven't found the perfect mate while five aren't sure and are presently separated, and another 20 admit they made a mistake. Twelve of the latter are trying it again. Our divorce rate of 3.2% is well below the national average. 7% of the married members walked the aisle at Yale, while just over half the class was married by June '56. The bachelors are very reticent about letting us in on their plans; very few filled in the line "if not yet, when?"

Our wives are almost as bright as we say we are. 69% graduated from college and 17% of these went on to receive a graduate degree. 95% of us received our bachelor degrees from Yale and an enterprising 57% hold a graduate degree.

Our respondents have 1,213 children, 640 boys and 573 girls. Statistically, this means 1.95 children for each married couple. Top man we spotted has eight kids, while at least five fathers claim five or more.

Three-quarters of our children will go to public elementary school, but over half will go to private secondary school. 54% of our children will go to prep school while 58% of their fathers did. However, only 481 of the 621 married men answered this part of the question; secondary education is still too far away for most of them. Most of us actively devote over eight hours a week to our children and three times as many devote 15 hours or more than devote three hours or less. Six out of ten have regular intellectual discussions with their wives; 14 men never have them.

POLITICS

We were primarily Republicans while at Yale and still are, though to a lesser degree. We supported Nixon (62%) in 1960 and he ran ahead of his party (56%). Kennedy picked up 29% of the votes while only 9% of us did not vote. Interestingly enough very few Democrats were among the latter.

Our wives voted in almost the exact proportions we did, but 13% did not vote, and 14% voted differently than their husbands.

18% of us, by the way, have switched parties since graduation. The Conservative Party has claimed 6%, and the Democrats have added 3% while the Republicans have lost 5%, and the Independents 4%.

Fifteen members of the class have run for public office and eleven of these were elected – three to a state legislature and eight to local office.

10% participate actively in local politics and neither party seems to have the edge here.

In 1964, of those we counted, 178 will vote for Kennedy, 133 for Rockefeller, 80 for Goldwater, 64 for Romney, seven for Scranton, six for Nixon, three for Stevenson, two for McNamara, and one for Hatfield, while 127 are undecided. But there were vigorous votes cast for Sonny Liston, Theodore Roosevelt, Bob Taft, Jr., Henry Cabot Lodge, Pogo and Caroline.

Others wanted "anybody but a Kennedy," "whoever can beat Kennedy," "not Kennedy," "not JFK," and one man said he "couldn't care less."

RELIGION

7% of the class have changed their religious affiliation since entering Yale and 17% of the married members have a different affiliation than their wives. In most cases this means no affiliation at all any more. Though 83% of the Class believe they are very, or somewhat religious, 48% attend church less than three times a year. On the other hand, a surprising number of those who don't consider themselves religious are in their pews every Sunday. Our children will have a stronger religious upbringing than our current religious practices indicate. While 17% do not consider themselves religious, only 5% will not give their children any religious upbringing.

PERSONAL

If you've lost some hair, don't be disturbed – 60% of us have. 29 men have developed an ulcer and a few others aren't quite sure. Though we haven't yet approached the percent of East Side cliff-dwellers who have sought the bearded man's couch, 64 classmates have undergone some form of psychiatric treatment. There seems to be no overlap however between this latter group and the bland dieters.

LEISURE

Sex is the favorite form of relaxation for many of us, though one man reported "Great Books Foundation discussions." Other entries were sleeping, puttering, model railroading, woodworking, gardening, dog showing, and "sitting in the sun in Florida with a drink." Though many of us listed a sport as a favorite relaxation and most of us participated in one or more last year, half of us indulge in some kind of exercise less than two hours a week. Only 2% participate more than two hours a day. One paradoxical revelation is the number of those with zero hours of exercise who checked three favorite sports participated in last year. Perhaps they fall in JFK's group of active spectators.

Speaking of sports, active or not, our favorite is swimming, followed by tennis and golf. Next comes sailing, skiing, fishing and squash. Only nine men listed skin diving as a favorite but four men added basketball to our already lengthy list.

We seem to be a pretty active lot. Of a random sample of 325 classmates, these are the totals of attendance at the following entertainments for a one year period:

Entertainment	Times Attended	Number of Men	Average Attendance per Man
Concerts	836	207	4.0
Opera	172	81	2.1
Theatre	1080	259	4.2
Art Exhibits, Museums	863	216	4.0
Lectures	1466	181	8.1
Dances	946	241	3.9
Night Clubs	1427	241	5.9
Sports Events	2114	251	8.4
Bridge	3531	194	18.2
Poker	495	91	5.4
Movies	2581	301	8.6

The above averages were inflated by one bidding commuter who plays to and from work – 240 times a year, by one individual of scholarly bent who attended 110 lectures and by one credit card collector closely watched by the Internal Revenue Service with 50 nightclubs to his credit. Other top men in their respective fields of interest attended 25 concerts, 7 operas, 18 theatrical performances or 25 art exhibits and museums. Tending to deflate the average somewhat was one man who stated that he lived in the South “but only temporarily” and as for entertainment indicated “nothing available in this god-forsaken place.”

The random survey of the undergraduate body in 1953 indicated that we saw almost four movies every month. The drastic decline to 8.6 a year must be disheartening to Hollywood, but perhaps they intend to recoup by luring the entire class in to see “Cleopatra.”

9% of us have made five or more pleasure trips outside the U.S. (most of these are bachelors), but almost a third have made no trips at all. This is somewhat surprising – we’re not the world travelers 1950 and 1951 are.

We’re far below the national average in our television viewing and the raters would find us very discriminating. 14% don’t look at all, and only 5% spend two hours or more a day in front of the monotony box. The biggest segment turn the dial an hour a day on the average.

Inspired, perhaps, by our rapid reading President, we, too, do a lot of reading – all except 3% of us who haven’t leafed through a non-occupational book in a year. 35% read up to five books a year; 23% between five and ten; 18% from ten to twenty; and 21% read twenty or more. While at Yale, only 13% of the undergraduate body read more than twenty non-course books a year. 80% of us now buy at least one book a year. One darling of the publishers buys 40 books a year, borrows three from his friends (if he has time for any) and takes out 30 more from his public library. Another buys 45 a year which might darn well keep some publishers in the black.

The bachelors lead the way in the entertaining business, filling up the ranks of those (10%) who entertain at home or go out socially more than ten evenings a month. 1% are hermits.

The class splits down the middle when it comes to time devoted to community affairs. 51% do; 49% don't. We didn't add up the do's of the doers, however, nor the clubs of the clubbers, but thanks for answering anyway.

YALE

As mentioned earlier, almost half of us think we ranked in the top third. It would be interesting to know what average was needed to make the top — we guessed about 82 since over half the class made Dean's list our final year — so now you know if you stretched the truth.

Obviously, many didn't know what we meant by a gentleman student — there being only a 37% response of yes to this. Adding the 26% on Dean's list and the 12% with Phi Beta keys, the total is 63%. Where, oh where, have the other 25% gone? Are they the ones who didn't return the questionnaire or should we have added another scholastic category?

18% won their letter on the playing fields of Yale, while 61% did so on the fields where the Bowl traffic parks. 37% of us belonged to fraternities while 38% would join a fraternity if he had his Yale career to do over again. Actually, roughly one out of seven fraternity members would not join a fraternity today, while one out of six non-members would like to.

107 men report they are a member of a senior society; 109 on a publication or WYBC; and 241 an officer of an undergraduate organization.

The responses to question 50 are significant and the percentages speak for themselves. Note that they reflect positively the changes instituted in the undergraduate curriculum since 1953 by Yale's late President A. Whitney Griswold.

Unfortunately, we had to give up on the question which asked us to rank courses, activities, athletics and friends in order of their contribution to over-all development and preparation for life. The question asked for rankings from 6 for the most important to 1 for the least important, but after viewing innumerable questionnaires which ranked athletics 6 where the writer had never even donned a pair of tennis shoes, we sadly decided to go on to more fruitful areas of endeavor.

If we had our Yale career to do over again, one out of every three of us would major in another subject and one in five would choose a different roommate. The dissatisfaction indicated here is approximately double that discovered by the Class of 1951 at its tenth reunion.

And though 96% believe in annual support of private education, 22% have contributed to the Alumni Fund less than five times. Two-thirds of us pay the class dues regularly and make it possible for the postman to bring the Yale Alumni Magazine to every door. 80% of us read it regularly and only 1% of the subscription is completely wasted.

A little less than one-third of the class are presently participating in some form of activity connected with Yale and four men out of every ten belong to a Yale Club. While only 13% report that no such club is available, no doubt a good many of the 47% who said they didn't belong are many dusty miles from a blue oasis.

Harvard can have its Radcliffe and Brown its Pembroke; Yale will stick to separation of the sexes, at least academically. 77% vociferously agreed that women should not be admitted as undergraduates. Interestingly enough, only 1% of those who had a "very good time" at Yale voted for female classmates, while a high proportion of the "yes" votes came from the men who had only a fairly good time or worse and who would probably go elsewhere if they had it to do over again.

And Harvard is where they would go. Of those we counted, 209 named Cambridge as their four-year place of residence if for some reason they could not have attended Yale. Runners-up were Princeton (100), Dartmouth (37), Cornell (21), Stanford (20) and Williams (16).

But when all is said and done, we are glad we went to Yale. Only 5% had a poor time as undergraduates, and 89% would be prepared to brave 'Commons again. Presuming, of course, we could be admitted — a fact that 9% of us believe impossible today.

The education we received at Yale is more important to us than the fact that we went there at all. The following excerpts indicate what have been the greatest contributions Yale has made to some of us:

- "financial assistance to obtain education."
- "gave me a chance to find myself."
- "awareness of enjoyment in intellectual accomplishment."
- "awareness of the world and my responsibility to it."
- "academic education in classroom, practical education outside."

YALE AND THE COMMUNITY

We view the future with a certain smugness. We're doing better than we had expected when at Yale and quite a bit better than our parents were doing at the same age. For the most part, we will provide better for our children than our parents provided for us.

Most of us consider ourselves a success in our career, and though we're not quite so sure about our community and financial status, we seem to be confident about reaching our particular goals in the years ahead.

WITH THANKS

There are many people we would like to thank for making this directory possible.

Miss Marjory L. Jones of the Class Officers Bureau in New Haven, who gave us much early and helpful advice, furnished us with the official class roster of names and addresses, and whose department supplied the end-paper maps.

Mrs. Gladys Speer, legal secretary turned Class Typist, who freely and graciously devoted many hours to deciphering, re-arranging and proof-reading our names.

Harry Baldwin, who devoted countless hours in helping prepare the anonymous questionnaire and Bill Colgan, our speedy statistician, who spent as many hours totaling the results.

Wilder Baker and Bob Agman, who did their share of totaling and advising too.

Bill Nightingale, who assisted us throughout, designed the cover and did the art work.

Marv Deckoff, who produced the book itself.

And finally our wives, who went to sleep without us on many a wintry night.
